Dedication

We dedicate the Sewickley Academy 1982 yearbook to a woman who exemplifies all that the school stands for. She is an artist and an actress, a teacher of phonetics and multiplication.

She disciplines us with her gentle humor and prepares us for the rigorous years ahead. She is a familiar face among our faculty and we hope she will remain so for many years to come. This book is presented with love and many thanks to Mrs. Darlene Hardy.

LOWER SCHOOL

A Year Of Firsts For First Grade

The first grade enjoyed their first year in the main building and the many new experiences it entailed. Their favorite activities were recess, lunch, art and music. Their nature trips and visits by the Imaginarium were also popular.

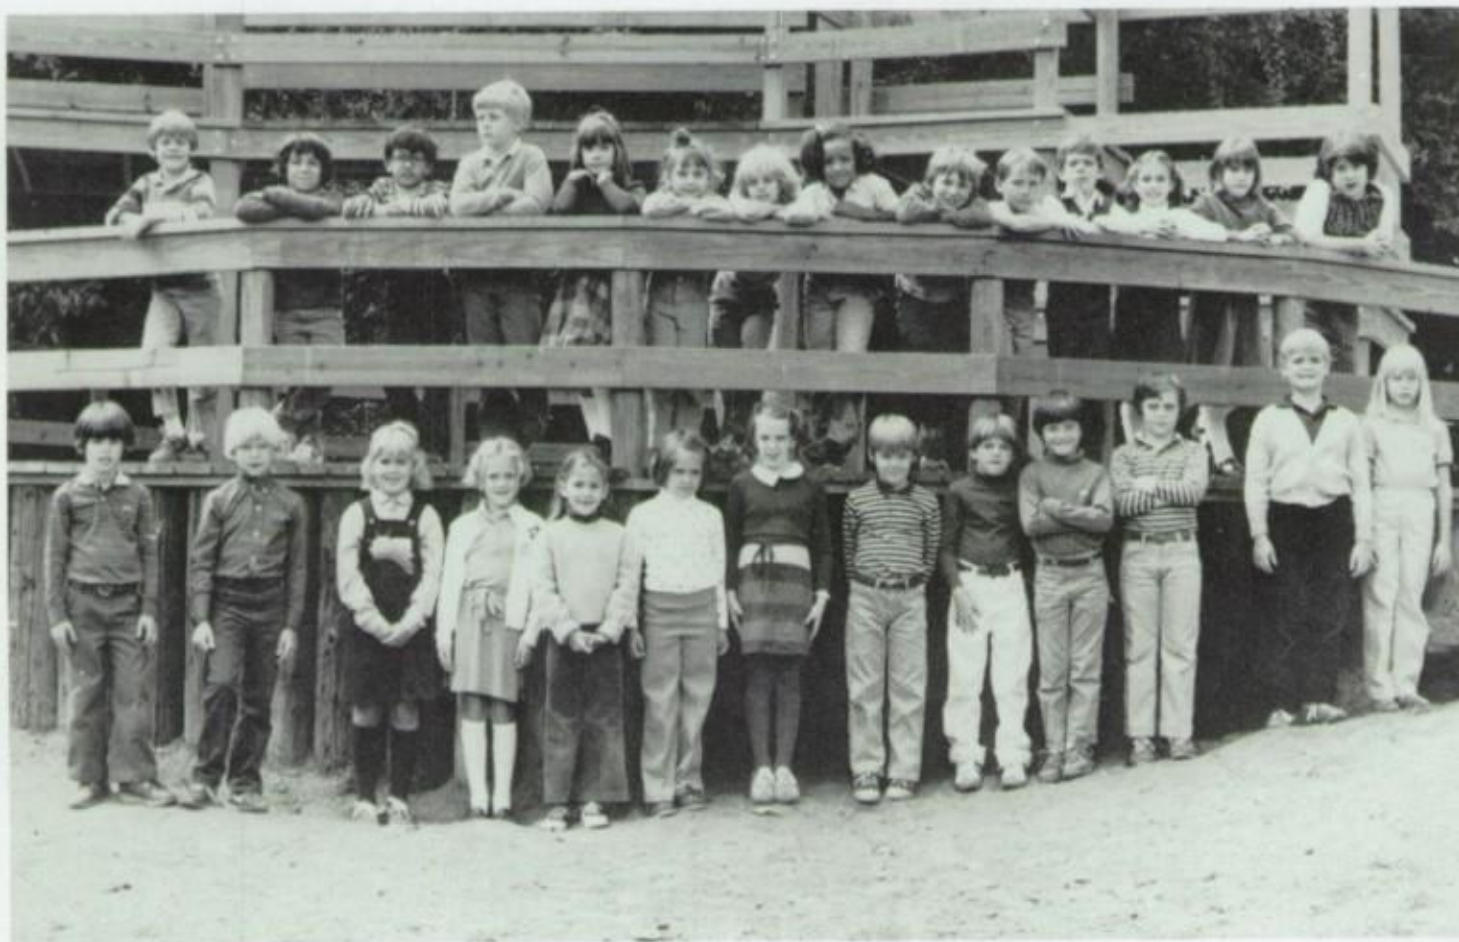

Fr. row-B. Bullerdick, A. Evert, P. Meub, P. Mustari, J. O'Malley, M. Snyder, D. Sculley, D. Cowan, K. Barry, E. Sadd, R. MacKenzie, C. MacIlwaine, M. Knotts. Bk. row-D. Jackson, D. Reader, J. Bojalad, A. Caesar, G. Walters, M. Longmore, B. Edwards, A. Bean, W. Humphrey, B. Madoa, M. Eberle, M. MacKenzie, M. Morris

Scott, H. Snyder, H. Shannonhouse, J. Rose, L. Semple, D. Rockwell, B. O'Donnell, M. Rogers, T. O'Malley, T. Ray, J. Matthews Absent: A. Ball, K. Strohmeyer

The second grade satisfied their curiosity in science this year. They visited the museum's dinosaur collection, worked together in the Science Club and received badges to mark their progress. They performed plays at Halloween and in the spring. They worked towards independence and organization in studying, and began to realize the importance of listening to their classmates' ideas.

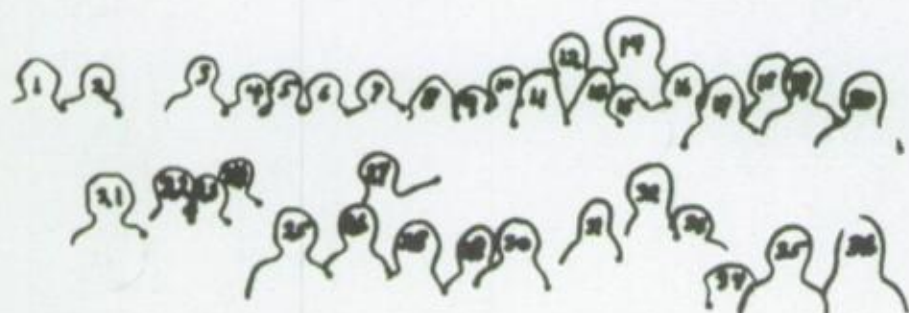

Learning From Others Teaches Third Graders About Themselves

Front: D. Anton, J. Wu, A. Masrie, A. Derr, B. Janeway, B. Batchelor, J. Moore, M. Streppa, J. Obrosky, L. Matthews, C. Churchill.
Second Row: F. Schroeder, H. Bond, A. Gregg, M. Kopf, K. Stuart, V. Humphrey, St. C. Okie, K. Malone, P. Long, Standing: M. Pittman, S. Harris, Mrs. Nichols, D. Brandys, A. Johnson, J. Streppa, J. Gebhardt, M. Lynch, J. C. Stone, Mrs. King, D. Smith, J. Longmore, E. Wickwire.

Last fall the third grade received a visit from the German exchange students, and then wrote to them after their return to Germany. Their greatest fun was entertaining guests with their own plays and written work, and they helped put together a production of the Nutcracker Suite. Especially popular were the candy parties they held every month.

The fourth grade investigated their own abilities. They planned their holiday parties, including a Noel Luncheon that was part of their study of the French in America. They competed in a Scholastic News Citizen contest that stretched their creative and descriptive skills, and they wrote their autobiographies. The fourth grade danced and sang over the rainbow as the Munchkins in the Wizard of Oz. They move on to the fifth grade with increased respect for themselves and for one another.

Fifth Grade Friends

The fifth grade was an "active and social" group, said Mr. Smith. Together they competed in interscholastic sports and put a lot of effort into the Lower School play. Some students spent time perfecting their gymnastics skills or helping to care for the science lab.

Gaining Independence

Sixth Grade Moves Towards Middle School

As the oldest group of students in the lower school, the sixth graders were encouraged to develop self-discipline and a sense of responsibility. They worked on independent science projects and participated in the annual science fair in the spring. They also visited the Carnegie Museum in connection with their study of Greco-Roman culture. In particular they enjoyed competing in athletics and starring in their play.

Now that we have decoded the assignment sheets, tunneled through stacks of homework, analyzed the diverse faculty, avoided (?oh well . . . almost?) detention and the X-list, we can begin to enjoy the fun and freedom of Seventh Grade — those lengthy lunch breaks, the socializing, a locker to decorate (and clean?), computers, rumors, crazy days, dances, and finally a D.C. Tour!

Look at them now and think of them back . . .
 They've traded their hoola-hoop, skate, ball and jack;
 Remember the missing teeth and cute freckled faces?
 Now they're grown preppies in knickers and braces.
 Recall sticky hands that held fairytale lore;
 Now they hold Word Wealth and The Trojan War.

Remember the crushes on Osmond and Soul?
 Now they're on Ricky and O'D and Joel!

We've Traveled The Rough Road To Glory

Having completed our third year in the Middle School, we have developed feelings of security, superiority, and satisfaction. We are at ease with the faculty, curriculum and environment. Along with general control of student affairs, we assume the mature responsibility expected of us. We are reminded by those RECORDED GRADES that we have finished our Freshman Year. Now we are free to dream of cars, proms, and the new, fresh atmosphere of Senior School.

Senior School

The biggest and best difference in school this year for the sophomores was life in the Senior School. They discovered the joys and hassles of having free time that they had to organize for themselves. Recognizing the pitfalls of less supervised time, they adapted well and learned to use their time wisely. The advantages, they found, were great. They had more time to get to know one another, making new friends from old classmates. The class began to draw together, discovering its own resources and strengths. With these, the sophomores weathered Exposition, Civ, and the PSAT's (as the very first sophomore class at Sewickley to take them).

Sophomores Settle In

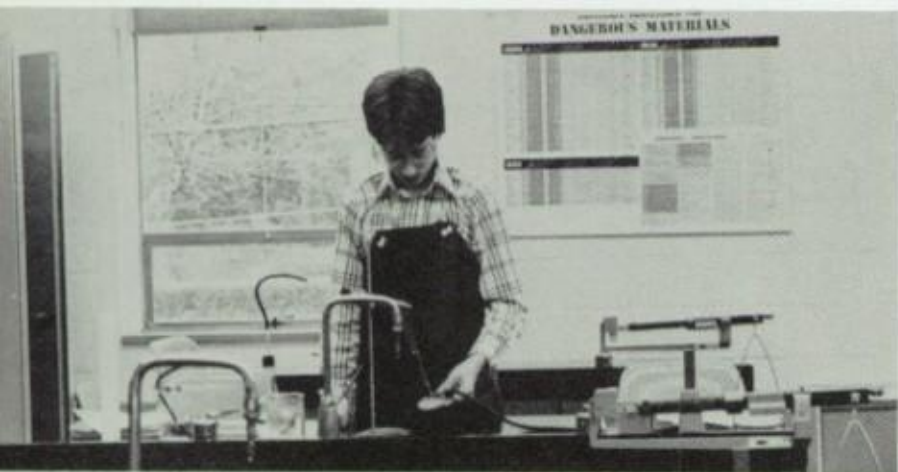

Sitting: G. Elvgren, G. Moreno, K. Block, A. DeChambeau, L. Pangersis, L. Traupman, C. Jackson, A. Hutchinson, M. Gaydos, J. Hansen, K. Stephan, M. McGinnis, V. Mascarenhas 1st row: C. Brewster, K. Zuberbuhler, S. Gray, M. McLean, N. Roth, L. Straka, E. Rockman, E. Falbo, J. Stringert, H. Ray, K. Heilman, K. McConomy, N. Craig, K. Edson, K. Robinson, S. Simonds, J. Duker, G. Diederich, N. Crowley, R. Skirpan 2nd row: C. Tiernan, P. Altdorfer, D. Hindman, T. Notaro, D. Walker, R. Kopf, R. Konrad, P. Courtney, B. Bartholomew, A. Hastings, B. Horst, D. Pauley, M. Bowers, C. Ott, J. Rudolf, M. Captline, D. Scioscia, T. Coburn, B. Goehring, B. Dithrich, C. Davis, B. Boyer, T. Volk, T. Teprovich, L. Jackson, T. Pettus, D. Moore, M.C. Pilarski, L. Nick, S. Grogan, D. Grant, M. Karlovitz, A. Porti.

Geraniums will swim in front of many juniors' eyes for years to come, as will piles of dead leaves. The flower sale and leaf raking were just two of the fundraisers for this year's prom. Top these activities with the extra "importance" of grades and boards and the junior year becomes one of the toughest. What kept them going besides F and P? The inevitable approach of senior year!

Language Clubs Exchange Cultures

This September, twenty students from the Erasmus Grasser Gymnasium in Munich, West Germany came to Sewickley. Staying with host families, the group visited many sites in Pittsburgh and found out how the American teen-ager lives. Some of the boys became excited about baseball after watching the Pirates play at Three Rivers Stadium.

In the spring a group of Academy students made a return trip, seeing again the friends they had made and becoming "tourists"

S.A. exchange trip to Munich

This year the French Club was in a period of transition. Along with the traditional activities, such as decorating the school for Christmas, having a Christmas, and participating in the language week, the French Club also became a little more French. One of this year's goals was to set aside some part of every meeting to speak, read, or listen to French. Talented and enthusiastic, the members learned more about France, its language and people and had a good time doing it.

"Portfolio" Publishes Students' Creations

The arts magazine Portfolio received two hundred dollars from the School Council along with the promise of matching funds for any money raised by the staff. This was done in hope that two issues of the magazine could be published this year. The staff has grown to include members from all classes, and Mrs. Polinko's experience and skills of organization are again benefiting the magazine.

During their Friday afternoon meetings, the Portfolio staff reviewed the work submitted by student writers and artists, and the thrifty and painstaking tradition of doing its own design and layout continues.

Pendragon Is

Pendragon was organized this year under the direction of Anne Lawton, Lori Huizenga and Clark Whalen, with Mrs. Reteshka as faculty advisor. Of the six seniors and seven juniors on the staff, one or two were always working in room 101 after three o'clock to help classmates with their writing. The introductory reception early in the year revealed some culinary talents among the Pendragon staff, who are selected by the English department on the basis of their demonstrated skill in writing. Staff members worked with one of Mrs. Polinko's sophomore English classes and they are also building a repertoire of techniques for helping seniors answer their college essay questions.

Have Speech Will Travel: Forensics Take Trophies

The Forensic Club, sponsored by Miss Markle, got off to a good start this year. The club travelled to Erie, Pennsylvania, where Karen Hannaway and Karen Gray both won second place trophies in a regional tournament. This new club offers a wide variety of categories ranging from Dramatic Interpretation to Extemporaneous speaking, and is not only a great learning experience for the members but also a lot of fun. The club offers a chance to participate in an educational activity while meeting many students from different schools.

Sound Of Music

Musicians
And Singers

"Alive With The Sound."

This year Sewickley Academy students were given the chance to explore many different areas of music. Under the direction of Mr. James Fritz, the Senior School had a selection of chorus, chambersingers, voice and musicianship, while chorus and general music were offered in the Middle School. Lower School general music was taught by Miss Jacqueline Blender. Private instrumental lessons were given in the Lower School by Mr. Jean Wilmouth, who also worked with the jazz ensemble and the Middle School band.

The Senior School Chorus planned a trip to Buffalo in March where they sang at Nichols School and Park School. Included in their trip was a stop at Niagara Falls. They also took part in activities at the lighting ceremony in Sewickley in late November and Senior School Graduation in June.

Each year the Music Department offers a variety of selections, and is continually making improvements to suit the needs of its music-oriented students.

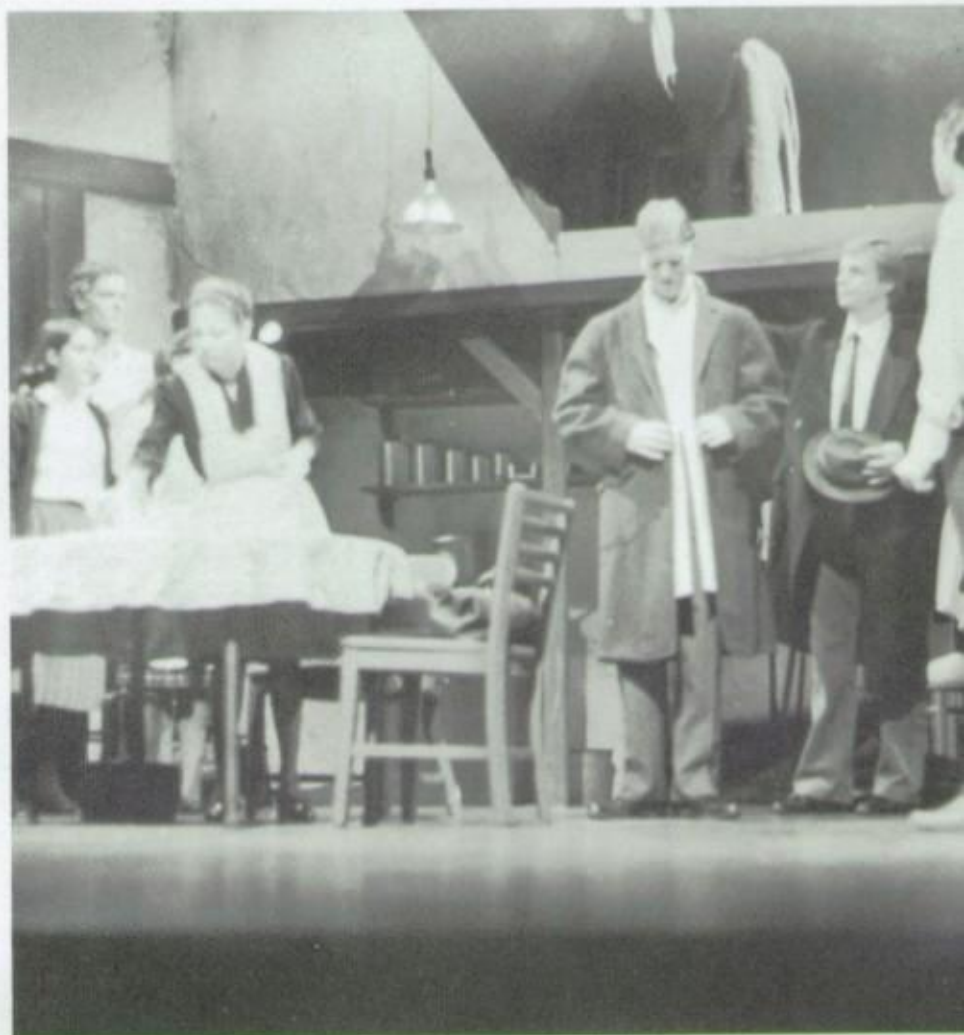

Performers Present “Play”-ful Productions

This year, people in Rea Auditorium have been working full swing. Directed by Mario Melodia, Middle Schools students performed “Mama Mia, The Godfather Child” during the spring, while the Lower Schoolers showed their talent in a unique production of “The Wizard Of Oz”.

Along with its courses of Acting 1, Play To Performance, and Acting For The Serious Student, the Senior School Theatre Department, headed by Mr. Wayne Brinda, put on a variety of plays. Starting off the year was “The Diary Of Anne Frank” followed by a series of one-act plays, “The Case Of Crushed Petunias”, “The Mall”, and “When Shakespeare’s Ladies Meet”.

With its lively productions and so many talented students, the Theatre Department at Sewickley Academy is energetic and entertaining.

School Council Unites Students And Faculty

SCHOOL COUNCIL

This year's Senior School Council kept busy trying to create a stronger rapport with teachers and administrators while at the same time maintaining the individuality of the student body. In addition, recommendations to the administration concerning littering, detention processes, and academic probation. The administration took the Council's propositions into account before reaching decisions. It was concerned with improving the governmental system, so as student exchange program was set up with North Allegheny to see how other schools operate.

CAMPUS IMPROVEMENT

The Campus Improvement Committee, headed by Susan Haugh and sponsored by Mr. John White, set out to improve the Senior School and promote student work this year. To do this, various steps were taken, such as buying chairs for the halls and displaying student art in the new wing. In addition, plants were put in the halls and student writing was tacked on bulletin boards. Everything centered around student life.

THE CURRICULUM COMMITTEE

The Curriculum Committee, headed by Beth Vandemark, worked toward improving the present curriculum. It started the year by working on a student input questionnaire which was to be handed out at the completion of each course. In addition, it studied class rank, possible improvements on the advisee system, and the position of exams in hopes of finding solutions to problems stemming from these areas. The May Program Committee, a sub-committee, studied various alternative education plans.

THE ASSEMBLY COMMITTEE

This year the Assembly Committee, headed by Victoria Powell, tried to continue traditional assemblies yet explore new areas. One example of a tradition was Arts Week, which continued this year. At the same time, new assemblies were incorporated into school days, such as a rape prevention demonstration and an informative ERA talk. The committee's goal was to aid educational expansion, which it attempted to do by diversifying its programs.

THE DISCIPLINE COMMITTEE

The Discipline Committee, whose president was John Pitts, tried to present proposals to the Faculty and Student Council to help solve disciplinary problems in the Senior School this year. It controlled littering and vandalism by placing committee members in the lounge during each period of the day. In addition, it proposed many good ideas concerning discipline which have been reviewed by the School Council and the Academic Review Committee which included making Academic Probation more beneficial, controlling littering and eliminating cheating.

THE COMMUNITY AFFAIRS COMMITTEE

The Community Affairs Committee, led by Stephanie Carroll, served various charities and the Sewickley Community this year. All of its proceeds were given to charities and foundations. Its members did such things as recycling, holding a foul-shooting contest to raise money for Children's Hospital, holding a blood drive for Central Blood Bank, decorating a Christmas tree for the Verlund Foundation, and participating in a Walk-a-Thon to raise money for the D.T. Watson home. In addition, it tried to start a student volunteer program for Sewickley Valley Hospital and the D.T. Watson home.

Students Take To The Great Outdoors!

The Trailblazers club, sponsored by Mrs. Konrad, Mr. Fowler and Mrs. MacDonald, enjoyed greater popularity this year, with a large number of students participating in the various activities. Several weekend trips to the Laurel Highlands were planned. Students went to Poc-O-McCready Center in New York for a week to learn about environmental studies. The group sponsored films to increase awareness of environmental problems.

Sports

Soccer

This year's J.V. soccer team achieved the best record in the history of Sewickley Academy. As the season progressed, they became a team determined to play well. Each member contributed to the team as a whole. According to Coach Buckley, they should be proud of what they did because they worked hard to win.

Moyer, M. Fitzgerald, J. Scioscia, R. Skirpan, A. MacVicar, T. Coburn. Missing: M. Chapman, H. Clement, P. Harty.

This year's soccer team played inconsistently mainly because Coach DeFretas was trying new things. The new style of play was difficult and took the team some time to adjust to it. Once they understood, they played an excellent and very unique short-passing game. The highlight of the season was beating Quaker Valley in the Sewickley home tournament.

The Varsity won the league trophy this year. Despite a full schedule, the team became stronger and stronger. Although there was only a small number of experienced seniors, juniors and sophomores contributed to the team. Changing to a new position system seemed to help, though there were minor adjustment problems. Overall, the team was enthusiastic as well as talented, which led to a fine record.

This year's J.V. team had tremendous potential and improved greatly as the season progressed. Coach Partenheimer's philosophies were different so some adjustment was necessary. However the team improved their skills, which made the season a success despite the record. They were a group of hard-working girls who put effort into practices, making the season a good building year, which will be useful for the future.

Wrestling

The Wrestling Team seemed to show improvement this year. With Mr. DeFritas and Mr. Smith coaching, the members of the team underwent rigorous workouts, intended to keep them in the best possible shape. There are 12 weight classes in this sport, and to wrestle in their preferred classes the wrestlers must constantly maintain a proper diet. Judging by their performances, the Wrestling Team seems to be on its way to successful future seasons.

In Memoriam

Edward David Chesky

Mr. Chesky was killed in an automobile accident in October 1981. He was known not only to students and faculty of the Academy as an alumnus but also for his capacity as a teacher of science from 1976 to '79. As an assistant to Mr. Partenheimer, he was involved in the school's athletic program. He was admired and respected by all who knew him.

We on the staff feel Mr. Chesky characterized the dedication and caring of the teachers at Sewickley Academy. His interest in others is shown in the quote he chose for his senior yearbook (1972):

"The worst sin towards our fellow creatures is not to hate them but to be indifferent to them; that's the essence of inhumanity."

Year In Review

This year has seen terrorism rise as the newest method to make a mark on history. Three assassins whose actions shook the world over the past year—Mark David Chapman, John W. Hinckley and Mehmet Ali Agca—were convicted, and another world figure, President Anwar el-Sadat of Egypt, fell under an assassin's bullet. Is it surprising that our president reacted so strongly to reports of a Libyan hit team sent to kill him and other high ranking officials? In Italy a U.S. general was kidnapped by the Italian Red Brigade and held for 42 days before his dramatic rescue by Italian anti-terrorist forces. Wayne Williams was arrested and convicted for the murder of two black youths in Atlanta, 29 of whom had been killed since July 1979.

Violence erupted abroad, most notably under the unstable governments in Iran and Poland. Iranian president Bani-Sadr was ousted from office; thousands of executions are said to have followed his departure. The increasingly political anti-state activities of the Polish Solidarity union precipitated a crackdown of martial law by the Communist Polish government. The thousands arrested for the anti-state activities include Lech Walesa, Solidarity leader and Time magazine's man of the year. Israel was condemned by the U.S. and other nations for its aggressive action in the Middle East. Israeli planes bombed an Iraq nuclear plant and a highly populated section of Beirut, and the Israeli government announced the annexation of the Golan Heights. Rioting in British cities resulted from soaring unemployment and deteriorating urban conditions. Although fighting continued in El Salvador, President Reagan certified that human rights abuses were decreasing and announced intended increases in military aid to that country.

The U.S. was hit by recession this year, although economists predict an eventually favorable outcome to "Reaganomics". This may be in spite of confidence-shaking statements by Budget Director David Stockman that Reagan's tax-cut program was a "Trojan horse". This slight scandal was soon lost in the flurry surrounding the $1,000 that Richard Allen forgot he had accepted from a Japanese magazine.

A mass of Arctic air plunged the country into a cold spell this winter touching Florida citrus with frost and sliding California homes through the mud in torrential rains. Seventy-eight people were killed when an Air Florida jet crashed into the Potomac River in a snowstorm. Another one hundred-eleven died when two suspended walkways in the Kansas City Hyatt Regency Hotel collapsed on the weekly "tea dance". Both disasters were immediately followed by remarkable heroism.

The U.S. space shuttle Columbia completed 36 orbits of our planet, landing safely at Edwards Air Force Base. Brightening the summer with romance and pageantry was the marriage of the British heir to the throne, Prince Charles, to Lady Diana Spencer, who dutifully conceived another in the royal line within two months. "Raiders of the Lost Ark" kept moviegoers on the edge of their seats, and "Superman II" set ten all time box office records in its opening week. Erno Rubik created a cube that became a national obsession, sending The Simple Solution to Rubik's Cube to the top of the bestsellers list. Video games became another national obsession; Pac Man and Space Invaders beeped and buzzed into arcades and corner stores across the country. Silent Sony Walkmans replaced stereo "boxes", and they challenged high fashion punk into the ear, not funk into the air. This was also the year of strong comebacks for aging performers. Elizabeth Taylor dropped her seventh husband on her way to Broadway, Katherine Hepburn and Henry Fonda delivered award-winning performances in "On Golden Pond" and Mick Jagger tore through a 46 concert tour with the Rolling Stones, grossing $35 million.

By Caitie McQuade

I, Anita Wilkinson, being of formerly sound mind, wish to leave for the students of Sewickley Academy something most useful. Perhaps if it had been discovered earlier I would not be where I am today. Fortunately, such was not the case and I have learned the value of solitary contemplation of the 7 blue footprints on the ceiling of the yearbook room. What I am about to do is not meant to rob next year's lunatic, I mean, editor of any of the singular enjoyments of producing a book, but only to enlighten his or her peers. I leave something rare and valuable in hopes that it will be utilized to its fullest capacities. And now, without further delay, I present a unique map exclusively and visually portraying the most direct route to the yearbook room.

Truly and respectfully yours,
Anita L. Wilkinson
Bedlam, 3-16-82

After 27 years as headmaster of Sewickley Academy, Clifford Nichols, Jr. retires this year. For many graduates Mr. Nichols symbolizes the warmth and tradition of this school. From his "first day of school" handshakes to his address at graduation he lead Sewickley Academy through some of this country's most turbulent times and maintained a strong atmosphere of friendship and learning. He leaves Sewickley Academy with a firm foundation for future growth. We love him and wish him well.

Beginning July 1, 1982, Douglas McClure headmaster of Princeton Day School in Princeton, N.J., will take on his duties as headmaster of Sewickley Academy. Mr. Nichols leaves us many traditions. Mr. McClure will carry on these traditions, finding room for new growth. Students at the Academy have had a chance to meet with Mr. McClure and from their comments, our new headmaster is likely to receive a warm welcome.
